Atheist's mental inadequacy..

Abu Hayyan Saeed

Immanuel Kant (1724~1804) says, "Everything we see, we see through the two lenses of time and space. Since God is free from the constraints of time and space, human reason has no way to reach him."
In his book Critique of Pure Reason, Kant explained that when reason asks questions about transcendental realities (such as what is God?), it gets caught in contradictions (antinomies). This proves that reason is unable to answer these questions, not that it proves that God does not exist.

The example of an atheist is like that of a student who asks at the end of every lesson, "Well, tell me who created Allah?"

A student failed an exam by a teacher.
The student went to the principal with a complaint that he had been wrongly failed. The principal called both the teacher and the student and asked the teacher the reason for the failure. The teacher said that the reason for the boy's failure was that he always went off topic. He would leave the topic on which he was given to write an essay and go on to a topic of his choice!

When the principal asked for an example, the teacher said that once I asked him to write an essay on spring, he wrote something like this:

Spring is a very good season and its scenery is very pleasant. In this season, there is greenery everywhere and there is a lot of greenery. Camels love this season very much and camels are very powerful animals. It is called the ship of the desert. Camels are very patient animals. They go on long journeys. and have the ability to endure hunger and thirst for a long time. Arab people love camels very much, etc.

The principal said that it may be because of relevance that he wrote on camels instead of spring, you should give him some other topic and see

The teacher said that I once told him to do it this way, write an essay on a car factory in Japan. The essay that this student wrote was something like this Japan is a developed country and it has a unique and high position in the car industry. Japan is number one in the world in exporting cars. In our country, most of the cars are used by Japan, but the problem is that the price of petrol is very high in our country, so we should use camels for riding. Camels are very powerful animals. They are called the ship of the desert. Camels are very patient animals. They go on long journeys and have the ability to endure hunger and thirst for a long time. Arab people love camels very much.

The principal was very surprised and said that perhaps this has happened because of riding, you should have given a completely different topic. The teacher said yes, once I gave a completely different topic in which it was impossible to mention the camel. I asked him to write an essay on the computer, but the essay he wrote was something like this: The computer is a very amazing invention. The work that was not done in the previous years is done in seconds today. Computers have done a great favor on human life. Today's new generation gives great importance to computers. It is mostly used by those who are educated. But as far as the uneducated class is concerned, they do not pay attention to computers because they are busy with other activities. Especially the Buddhists who live in the deserts do not know the alphabet of computers. Therefore, in our area, these people spend most of their time with camels. Camels are very powerful animals. They are called the ship of the desert. Camels are very patient animals. They go on long journeys and have the ability to endure hunger and thirst for long days. Arabs love camels very much.
The principal heard this and said, "Then you failed right away." Then he told the student, "I will give you a chance. Sit down and write an essay that does not deviate from the topic." The student agreed. The principal asked him to write an essay on a road accident. The student wrote the essay like this:

Once we were going from Khanpur Katora to Cholistan in a car. It was raining lightly. We were passing through an area where camels cross the road. Suddenly, a camel ran into our car. The special thing about a camel is that it is neither afraid of a car nor does it move away. The camel is a very powerful animal. It is called the ship of the desert. The camel is a very patient animal. It goes on long journeys and has the ability to endure hunger and thirst for long days. The Arabs love camels very much.
When the principal read this essay, he sat down and said, "There is no cure for you and he failed it." Now, the doubt of this student has turned into belief. That he must have been wronged and he wrote a petition to the education department,the format of the petition describes as under :

Your Excellency,
I am a very intelligent student in my class and I have deliberately failed in the annual examination. My teacher has failed me because of my ability. Sir, I have been patient with my teacher's unbearable behavior just as a camel is patient with the oppression and cruelty of its owner. The owner both makes the camel do his work and also persecutes it. And yes, let me also tell you that the camel is a very powerful animal. It is called the ship of the desert. The camel is a very patient animal. It goes on long journeys and is capable of enduring hunger and thirst for long days. The people of Arabia love the camel very much.
